If you need to make changes to the rules already in place the rules already in place. There should be a meeting just for the people of Healdsburg to voice their opinions for change but it should not be at the meetings that were for the approval of the restaurant. Some of the people we have been hearing from want to change rules already in place. Dustin Valette speaks to project. Dustin Valette speaks to project. Valette speaks to project. It just seems to me that there should be rules required to build upon a restaurant that the new owners cannot comply with and then get approved right from the start. If they must get a new restaurant in place they should be able to comply with any new rules that are ruled.

As you might know, my great-grandfather, Honore Valette, was a baker. He migrated from France and started opening bakeshops in the Bay Area. He moved to Healdsburg and his first bakery was at 106 Matheson St., the existing Fabrications location. He ran it back then and it was a thriving bakery into the 1920s. He was the first baker in Healdsburg. Dustin Valette is from France and learned from his grandfather. Dustin runs the bakery that his grandfather ran.
